

Buckland Manor

THE CLASSIC CHARM OF AN ENGLISH MANOR HOUSE

WELCOME

One of the most elegant country house hotels in the Cotswolds, Buckland Manor is tucked away in a tranquil corner of the village of Buckland, next to the historic church. Set in ten acres of grounds, which blend seamlessly into the surroundings, this beautiful manor house is unmarked by the passing of time.

THE GARDENS

Overlooking the Vale of Evesham, Buckland Manor's ten acres of beautiful gardens are a true hidden gem and feature a stream, croquet lawn, boules court and a tennis court, nestled amongst woodland leading into the surrounding countryside. The gardens exude an air of peace and tranquillity and one of the Cotswolds' best kept secrets is alfresco afternoon tea on the terrace.

INTERIOR

Fine antiques and rich fabrics brought together by the Brownsword family sit alongside beautiful artwork and roaring log fires in the lounges, creating a peaceful and welcoming countryside retreat.

GUEST ROOMS

All 15 guest rooms at Buckland Manor are individual in style and design. Original features including leaded windows and beamed ceilings are combined with luxurious fabrics, generous bathrooms and breathtaking views of the hotel's grounds.

Two guestrooms added in 2014 and named after Andrew and Christina Brownsword's first grandchild, Sophia Rose, effortlessly combine modern luxuries with the classic charm of this pleasant English manor house boasting garden views from 'Rose' and a dramatic vaulted ceiling in 'Sophia'.

AFTERNOON TEA

Be it enjoying the summer sunshine on the terrace or in front of a roaring log fire during the winter months, afternoon tea is a great British tradition in which to indulge all year round at Buckland Manor.

RESTAURANT

From a kitchen that has the privilege of having the ‘market garden of England’ – the Vale of Evesham – on its doorstep, as well as a herb garden in the grounds, the menus at Buckland Manor represent a love of fresh, seasonal and local produce. Executive Chef, William Guthrie, and his team of talented chefs work tirelessly to create mouth-watering menus that are English at their core and stay true to location, whilst remaining innovative and modern.

WEDDINGS & EVENTS

For those that want Buckland Manor all to themselves, the hotel lends an intimate, elegant charm to any occasion and is perfect for private house parties and special events.
